☐ ☐ Advance a d6 Domain die to d8

☐ Advance your Epithet die to d8

☐ Add another Epithet

❑ When you support or bolster, the die you give counts as one size larger.

❑ When you mark Pathos for an extra Domain, take two extra dice instead of one.

- ❑ When you spend Divine Favor, roll +2d4 and keep the highest.

You are a hero of ancient legend. On your way home from war, you and your companions become lost among strange islands. The gods have set before you a series of trials so that you might prove yourselves worthy of glory and legend. Overcome these trials and the gods will allow you to return home.

As a player, your goals are:

- ◆ Create a mighty hero whose exploits we are excited to witness.
- ◆ Throw your hero against epic trials so they might prove themselves glorious.
- ◆ Compete with the other heroes to prove who is best.
- ◆ Embody the legendary virtues: Acumen, Courage, Grace, and Passion.

ORIGIN

1. Record your hero's Epithet (see list below). Your Epithet die is d6.
2. Record your hero's Name (see suggestions at right). Your Name die is d6.
3. Record your lineage (name a mortal ancestor or choose a god for a parent). Choose a Domain that suits your lineage and give it a d8. Your other Domains are d6. If you're a demigod, record 1 Bond with your divine parent.
4. Choose your hero's current honored god and record two marks of Divine Favor with them: . You may choose a non-Olympian god as your honored god if you wish. Record three more marks of Divine Favor among the gods .
5. Record your hero's style: their look, armor, and favored weapon.
6. When everyone is ready, introduce your heroes. Write the other heroes' names in the Bonds section of your hero sheet. Demigod heroes record 1 Bond with each other hero. Mortal heroes record 2 Bonds with each other hero.
7. Resolve the leadership contest of the Voyage phase before starting the first island.

AGON

HERO PLAYER REFERENCE SHEET

AGON is a game of fast-paced heroic adventure inspired by ancient legends. The Hero Players create heroes who wander from island to island, engaging in contests, resolving strife, appeasing the gods, and seeking their way home. The Strife Player presents each island—its strife, opponents, and other characters—by revealing the situation, asking leading questions, and judging contests.

A session of play consists of an adventure on a dangerous island. Each island is suffering from strife, which the heroes may overcome. The gods watch and judge, granting favor or wrath, depending on how the heroes resolve the situation.

When the heroes leave and continue their voyage, the gods light their way in the stars of the Vault of Heaven, leading them to the next island and closer to returning home.

ISLANDS

An island consists of several elements:

- ◆ The Signs of the Gods—Oracular messages that the leader of the heroes may use to interpret the will of the gods as the island unfolds.
- ◆ Arrival—An opening situation that introduces the strife of the island and a few impending contests.
- ◆ Trials—Contests that the Hero Players might face to address the island's strife (or they may forge their own path).
- ◆ Battle—A final showdown to resolve the situation.

Before the first island, resolve the Leadership phase of the Voyage (see page 4) to determine the leader of the heroic band.

CONTESTS

The Strife Player proposes a contest when the heroes try to achieve a goal that's blocked by a worthy opponent or when a worthy opponent acts against the heroes. The contest resolves which side gets their way.

In AGON, almost anything can be an opponent. A contest can occur against a raging storm, a perilous mountainside, a giant boar, a bandit army, a devious king, or the enchanting song of a siren. As long as the opponent is worthy, use a contest to resolve the outcome.

If there's no worthy opponent in a situation, the heroes simply accomplish what they're trying to do—it's an automatic success, not deserving of dice rolls or Glory.

To frame a contest, the Hero Players say what the heroes are doing to overcome a worthy opponent and the Strife Player tells them the Domain of the contest. There are four Domains: Arts & Oration, Blood & Valor, Craft & Reason, and Resolve & Spirit.

The Strife Player summarizes the situation and what's at stake in the contest. Contests in AGON are sweeping and definitive. If the heroes attempt to win over the Queen of Nimos to ignore ancient taboos, then she does so if they win. If the heroes lose, however, the Queen may throw them in the dungeon for their blasphemy. After every contest, the situation shifts dramatically.

CONTEST PROCEDURE

The Strife Player rolls for the opponent—their Name, Epithets, and any bonus dice. Keep the single highest die and add the Strife Level (starting at +5) to get the target number for the heroes. Then the Strife player asks, "Who will face [opponent Epithet(s) and Name] in this contest of [Domain]?"

Each Hero Player indicates their participation in the contest by speaking their name. Start with the leader and go around the table. On your turn, recite your hero's name and grab dice as you go: If your Epithet applies to the contest, grab that die. Add your Name die and the Domain die for the contest when you say your Name and lineage.

- ◆ You may mark Pathos (○) to roll an additional Domain die.
- ◆ You may invoke Divine Favor by calling on the strength of a god—if you do, add +1d4 to your pool and spend ✨.
- ◆ If you spend a Bond, ask that player to give you a copy of their Name die to include in your dice pool.

"I will face this contest! I am swift-footed Adrastus, son of Circe! I call on the Precision of Artemis to aid me." The player grabs 1d6 for their Epithet, 1d6 for their Name, 1d6 for their Domain, and 1d4 for the Precision of Artemis (which spends a mark of Divine Favor).

Once everyone has spoken their names and gathered their dice, each Hero Player rolls their dice pool and sums the highest two (not counting the d4). Add the result of the +1d4 to the total.

The Hero Player rolls 3d6 and gets 3, 3, 4. The two highest dice sum to 7. Their 1d4 rolls a 3, which is added to the total, for a final result of 10.

Each Hero Player compares their result to the Strife Player:

- ◆ Equal to or greater: You prevail. Your action goes well.
- ◆ Less than: You suffer. Your action goes awry.

Starting with the Hero Player with the lowest result, each player narrates their action in the contest and describes the result (prevailing or suffering). If all the heroes suffer, the opponent wins the contest.

After the Hero Players have narrated, the Strife Player describes the resolution and new situation that results from the contest. The outcome from a contest is final—you may not attempt it the same way again.

REWARDS

A contest always results in Glory for the heroes. The prevailing hero with the highest result is best, and earns Glory equal to the Strife Player's result. The other heroes who prevail each earn half that amount. Heroes who suffer each earn 1 Glory (and may take harm—see page 4).

Heroes may also earn other rewards, depending on the nature of the contest, including a Bond with a character (or god), Divine Favor, or an Advantage die (d10) to use in a future contest.

BATTLES

A battle is a series of linked contests to defeat an opponent once and for all. Battles are played in three phases:

1. Clash: The heroes and the opponent maneuver for a superior position to gain an advantage in the battle. The winner of this contest (the opponent or the best hero) earns a 1d10 Advantage die, which they may use during the battle.

2. Threat: In the Threat phase, the opponent lashes out, causing disasters to named and/or unnamed characters, the island, or the wider world. Each hero chooses to either Seize control of the battle or Defend against a disaster caused by the opponent. If the heroes Seize control, they determine the Domain and stakes of the Finale phase of the battle (and the fate of the opponent). Otherwise, the opponent sets the Domain and stakes for the Finale. Each hero that prevails in the Defend contest may stop one disaster.

3. Finale: The heroes face the opponent in a final contest to determine the outcome of the battle and the fate of the opponent. If the heroes Seized control, they choose the Domain and set the terms—death, a change of heart, concessions, driven off, etc. Otherwise, the opponent may choose their own fate.
